

Instructions for authors

Début is published by the UK Subject Centre for Languages, Linguistics and Area Studies. We work to support teaching and learning in our subject areas.

Début welcomes scholarly papers written by undergraduate students in languages, linguistics and area studies. Each paper is reviewed by two academics or postgraduate students with expertise in the subject of your paper. Papers could be based on dissertations, (including year abroad projects), class projects or your own independent research. All papers should reference appropriate existing scholarship. There is now a Facebook group for Début where you can discuss preparing your articles and ask questions.

Début welcomes scholarly papers written by undergraduate students in languages, linguistics and area studies. Those who have graduated in the past 12 months may also submit work. Each paper is reviewed by academics or postgraduate students with expertise in the subject of your paper. Papers could be based on dissertations, (including year abroad projects), class projects or your own independent research. All papers should reference appropriate existing scholarship.

Papers (including references) should be 3000-5000 words and use the Harvard referencing style <http://www.llas.ac.uk/resourcedownloads/3088/harvardcitations.pdf> The first page should include your name, postal and email addresses. Please include an abstract of up to 150 words. Your work should be submitted to the editor, John Canning by email at j.canning@soton.ac.uk in Microsoft Word (.doc) or Rich Text Format (.rtf). The language of the journal is English. Articles are considered for publication in Début on the understanding that they are not being considered for publication in any other outlet.

If your paper requires the use of phonetic symbols, please consult the UCL Department of Speech, Hearing and Phonetic Sciences webpage <http://www.phon.ucl.ac.uk/resource/phonetics/> on the use of the International Phonetics Association (IPA) alphabet of phonetic symbols for the transcription of speech using computers. <http://www.phon.ucl.ac.uk/resource/phonetics/> This will ensure that your paper can be read by the editor and the reviewers.

Authors submit their work to Début on the understanding that the Subject Centre may publish their work online or in print form for non-commercial purposes. Authors retain the copyright to their work. It is the author's responsibility to ensure that permissions are obtained for objects that appear in the article, including screenshots, photographs, audio/video files and diagrams.

Checklist

Before submitting your article, please check the following:

- Your article does not exceed 5000 words
- If your article is based on a class essay or dissertation that all references to module number/ lecturer name etc. are removed
- Your article does not include materials copyrighted to other people (this could include pictures and photocopies from other books/ articles)
- That your references are formatted according to the Début style
- That your article does not include any appendices